SENIOR RESIDENTS

We are Eugene, Malini and Priya. We moved into Stormont House at the end of December, full of anticipation and hope. While we looked forward to the opportunity, we were also going back to our university roots -- each of us having attended Carleton in the mid-70s. In Stormont House, we are going "back to the future," and our family has grown from three to 193.

We feel very fortunate to be the first senior residents in Stormont. Priya (17 months) has adjusted rather well to residence life. We do not know everyone yet; though almost everyone knows our "Hi! Hi!" girl Priya. We love our new apartment and invite all to drop in anytime.

And so we see ourselves holding open houses, organizing educational programs, and generally creating a house-culture conducive to a community-living environment.

Final, we cannot mention the success we have seen to date without thanks to our Residence Fellows: Janine, Peter, Sandie, and Madhu. We look forward to an exciting and challenging experience next year.

Eugene and Malini

Please allow us to introduce ourselves -- does that sound vaguely Stones-ish? -- Scott, Sarah, Jared and Joshua Evans. We are originally from Alberta, and trekking east on an educational foray into McMaster and Carleton territory, and having a child with each degree!

Being the first Senior Residents in Dundas House is an absolute treat. There is an air of positive excitement here -- we're sure that the fact the students can actually breathe the air has helped tremendously!

Our goal when the building opened in January, with students coming in from all of the other buildings as well as from off-campus, was to work on fostering a sense of community. The "24-hour lock-up" has made this somewhat difficult, yet everyone has persevered wonderfully.

We are looking forward to a continued involvement with such a great group of students!

Scott and Sarah

House Notes

- After a labor strike delays summer construction, the new residence buildings, Stormont and Dundas, open in the new year.
- First residents (from off-campus) move in January 2, 1991.
- Mass exodus of more than 200 Glengarrians move into the new residence on January 7.

FIRST STORMONT

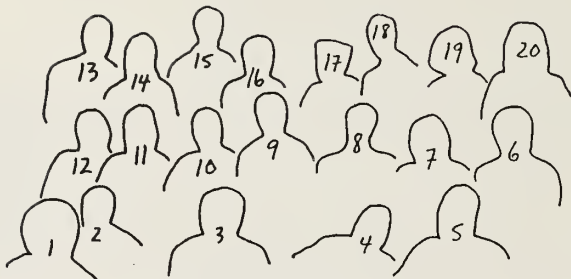

Yes we are the Riders of the Storm and damn proud of it. We are also proud of the Triple B Club (Butts, Bods and Booze). Who's holdin? Seriously, we all eat our fruits like good little boys and girls. Specifically, Cherries. Are the cherries ripe, Kristin? You may be asking yourself what's a rider? Well, riders come in all sizes, shapes and forms. From a "3 1/2 apple high" Kristin to a 190lb. plus "Dough Boy" (Mark). In between we have a "Sumo" (Julio), the three sticks (Keith, Sean and the Immortal Justin), "Lanky" (Geoff) and our loving "Shamoo" (Wendy). Our second year students aren't snobs guys and Dave "Rubik" is still great with that cube. Tina and Kurly are quite a pair and everyone's getting their "diggers." Right sister Lorraine?

The two babes from hell or Hull as some call it are off to Broadstreet and Kim's at the candy machine. Our authority figures include Gene, Malini, Madhu and Princess Priya. Catherine's floor rep by a landslide and Sabine's curing her nic fit in the hall. Lane's our jock and Kelly's our entertainer (Divine). Rob M., Jason and Bruce are the anti-socialists and Rob B.'s quasi-social. Mettaar's still holding and Ernie's still looking for Bert. Caryl and Martin love those 4 a.m. fire alarms. Actually, they get quite p.o.'d Josh, Angie, Renea, Tracy and Jeff W. (the other Riders) are still bitchin' about our shortages of study space. So no one's answered the $64,000 question . . . Who's holding (besides Mettaar?)?

Peace

It all started January 7. All we could smell was that distinct new building smell as we moved in one by one. Second Stormont, every Glen resident's dream: a brand new and clean room, hot showers, no little critters crawling around, and best of all, windows that open! We really don't have too many memories with the floor, but hey, we're still getting to know each other, but remember, the year is not over!! But the memories so far are: our Res Fellow greeting us with "Hi, there's no cable, no phones, but not to worry, we will be getting pay t.v.!!!", and the great air band competition, with our very own version of Madonna, the famous one-and-only "MAN" donna! Well, besides the little minor bugs of a new building, living on Second Stormont is like heaven!!! This is dedicated to the guys and gals on the floor:

Joy: Whips and chains, Joy and pain!!

Dwayne: The one and only Dwayner!

Stephen: 68 - one away from heaven!!

Liane: The "Lee"ster!!!

Gretchen & Nola: There nothing but trouble!!

Tanya: Geez Louise!! Call me Tawnya not Tanya!!

Noreen: Slue!! Newf.

Deanne: When will start work???

Karen: No problem!! Ugh!!

Catherine: Not!!

Mike: What a skid!!!

Corey: That's pretty nebulous!! Dude!!

John: They call me the donger!!!

Debra: Can you steal me a salt shaker from Saga for my pop corn??

 All those other's who didn't get to get in a message were either too stinken drunk to stop worshipping the porcelain god, or they were recovering from Saga!! **

THIRD STORMONT

If these first two weeks are any indication I think we're all going to agree at the end of the year that it's been a BLAST! Joe's wild partying lifestyle has made us realize that there's more to school than just academics: we should all relax a little more! Thanks, Joe! Peter, our father and authority figure was always there for us, giving us advice, usually ending with the phrase "But I didn't tell you to do that." One need only consider Marc and Bruce's phallic door sign bearing their names and Peter's reluctance to give his stamp of approval to the metre-high monument as a prime example. Eric's fire-breathing antics showed us just one of the many practical uses for 150-Proof Rum, and proved that the heat detectors in our rooms do indeed work. Special thanks to the ladies of Third Dundas for obliging us in our time of need, allowing us to use their TV lounge. A special mention to Blake and Aaron because they didn't make the picture, and to Greg just because he's a nice guy. "Ah Ompt Shku." And don't forget those Saga Cops, you "trou de Q!" (C.H.) Oh, and by the way, never do milkshooters with pineapples in it!

Todd could always be heard saying his famous lines "Take it easy, will ya. What the Hell, What the Hell!" in a somewhat dubious Rodney Dangerfield accent, followed by the vain statement, "Canucks Rule!" I'd just like to thank Beav ("What . . . did I stutter?") for spending those long hours at the computer getting Madonna to come to life "What are you lookin' at @#!*? Me!" Then, there's Phillipé, the beer-chugging champion of the world (ya, right!), and his roommate Jesus, with his rather interesting footwear - The Moonwalker. Whether it was Basil's Rocky transformation, the sound factory coming from room 357, or Wally's single spacious apartment, the floor certainly wasn't without excitement. Headlines for the life on 3rd Stormont: Everybody's music still sucks "Big Time" to most other people. Special thanks to those individuals who kept the floor up worshipping the porcelain god and talking to RALPH of the big white telephone. Chris was always seen fooling around with Madonna, making her scream. Cheers (Jay) was rarely seen in public, yet somehow managed to collect a row of beer cans for his wall. And to all of you who haven't been mentioned, we got memories of you too, but just couldn't get them in time to write this. To Third Stormont: ice cold, red hot, and a hell of a time . . . CHEERS!

The girls from 4th Stormont came from all over: from every floor in Glengarry especially 11th, 10th, and 4th, as well as from far and wide OC to create the best new floor in residence. We didn't have much time together - four months - but we lived that time in style. We were the only floor from the new Stormont-Dundas building to get together enough spirit and enthusiasm to enter the RRRR Airband 1991 contest and put together a very "respectable" show. Right Tiff?

Nobody on 4th Stormont could possibly regret the move here, except Janine, our res fellow, who lived right next to the TV lounge. We settled into our new lives in comfort and lived through minor building imperfections like getting locked into the study lounges with no doorknobs; wandering around the outside of the building at 2 am trying to find any door that would open with your key; getting locked out of your room entirely by doors that shut and lock automatically once you step outside. Those of us with a view onto the courtyard learned and perfected the art of watching what everybody else was doing in their rooms while at the same time, looking busy with our own lives.

On 4th Stormont we lived, loved, learned, laughed, and cried, but mostly we pushed ourselves to the limit and partied ourselves to the brink of death.

4th Stormont: the first of the best and we mean that.

FIRST DUNDAS

"Twas weeks before Christmas and all through the town
 Soon to be resses were disenchanted frowns.
 Stockings were hung infront of Housing with care
 In hope that room keys soon would be there.
 "We don't ask for much", these fine students said
 "All we really want is a bed".
 Jolly Saint Sterritt heard this request
 But told the students all he could do was his best.
 "We aren't at fault; the contractors are to blame"
 Wherever we turned we heard more of the same.
 Finally one day we heard bustle and chatter
 And we all ran to Housing to see what was the matter.
 "THE BUILDING IS FINISHED!!!" a chorus rang out
 But we approached this good news with a great deal of doubt.
 Not till Saint Davey handed us our keys
 (and Housing had assured we'd paid all our fees!)
 Did we ring out with laughter
 That was rugged and hardy
 A Happy New Year to all--
 Now let's start to party!

We've only been together for a few short weeks but already 1st
 Dundas is showing signs of early res development. Empty beer cans and pizza boxes line the hallway and a handful of floor members can frequently be found à la Bree's or in Hull. Does Broad-street mean anything to you guys?! One tradition we can do without is indoor snowball fights -- right Brian?! And guys, we like Jeff Healey but his 5 hour music marathons have got to go. However, with all the good times we have we still find time to go to all our classes and study hard (NOT). Thanks to everyone on 1st Dundas for making the first part of '91 really memorable! Take care and see you next year!

Chris: I love me
 Corey: So how many Iraqis have we killed anyway?
 Paul: Turn off the damn alarm
 Stephen: That's kinda cool
 Dean: Bye -- I'll be over in Lanark
 Shelley: Do a Shelley trick; stop thinking about it
 Sharon: As if I'm a trendy ski bum!
 Miranda: My life - what'll I do? Oh to die face down in green carpet
 Elissa: Participate?! But dear my lounging time
 Chrystyne: For all I know I have a test tomorrow
 Yolande (Lan): Word to your mother
 Patti (FR): Goin' chronic!
 Gabi: Did anyone call?
 Pegg: We're off to see the wizard
 Rita: No, no, no; all men are pigs
 Willie: Gimme a Guinness
 Julie: I can't think of anything
 Brian: Go away; I'm sleeping
 Kevin: Quit buggin' me -- I can't think of one
 Tracy: I dunno
 Paul: I'm not sure but I think she's hot for me
 Tracey: What the . . . happened last night
 Alan: You jerk. OH, easy buddy
 Corey: Hey buddy, can I borrow ten bucks?
 Stephanie (RF): NOT. Laundry time?!
 Darryl: OOGODAMN
 Marc: Relax Ethel

As the year comes to an end for most rezzies, it is only the beginning for the rest of us here on 2ND DUNDAS. As the new year embarked upon us many of us were getting ready for the big move into the brand new building. We are the first inhabitants of the floor and it is our job to form the traditions that will be associated with the floor for years to come.

The second everyone moved in, the partying began, friendships formed, and we got stains on the rug. I don't think any of us will forget this nakedly BAD ASS floor and it won't forget us, for we are the first to ever unlock its doors (we all love 24-hour lock up), the first to experience leaking bathtubs, and the first to have someone SPUNK in our beds! The floor WAS once clean and respectable but now only few words can explain it: Naked. Intoxicated. Blasted. Bombed. Raunchy. Loud, and GENERALLY . . .!

STEVE: SILENT.
ADAM: How's it going? Marginal!
PETER: Life sucks, so just blow me!!
TRISTAN: Just get NAKED!
RICK: When he's home, you hear him!
SHAWN: Get out of those women's magazines!
JODI: Touchy, Touchy, and the best SEX ever!
JENN: 4W'S - Wild Woman When Wasted!
LAURA: Children, & Mary Poppins
CHERYL: I don't know if I like him though . . . RIGHT ON!
VICKI: Shut up, YA BIG DUMMY!
DONNA: "Homey, don't play that!"
PAUL: Seen but not heard.
JONATHAN: Welcome to half-wits cuz a half-wit is better than no wits at all.

BEVERLY: "Janice, you don't even know what that means!" "He's just a friend!"
JANICE: "BREES In, CRAWL OUT." "OH BEAVER, you're so infantile."
MONICA: Here's to windows that open!
SPARK: I'm at the BREES; A) Working B) Socializing.
RIALI: NO thanks, I just woke up.
GREG: Hey Cutie! Hi Honey, I'm home.
LACHLAN: The King!
JOHN: The PSYCHO
EITAN: I want to watch CNN!
GREG: If you want to find me, I'll be on 4TH GREN!
JOHN (RES FELLOW): It's TOO late for this SHIT!!!
HEATHER: My Baby's on the phone.
JOLENDA: OH, he's so cute!
RUDY: RELAX!
DENISE: OH, stop it!
ANNA: I'm a BLANK!
KAREN: Molly Ringwald.
HILDE: I'm naturally blond, please speak slowly!
CHRISTINE: Oh shit, I slept through another class.
MELANIE: Melonhead. I don't know, MAYBE???
DIONNE (Hobbes): Meh' na no.
LEE-ANN (Calvin): Don't HUMBUG meh tings!
LYNN: WAYNE'S WORLD, The Stone Roses, B-52's
CLINT: Chicks, Chicks, Chicks! It's time for CHEERS.
TREVOR: FRIG OFF!
GREGORY: ED! DON'T THROW CHANGE AT THE RABBIT!
EDWARD: I'd like a martini. YEAH, a martini. Y'know, a martini?
NEIL: Do your best, pray for the rest.

THIRD DUNDAS

Recently, an important scientific study was made at Carleton University. Another species, "homo partius," has been identified in a newly established area of the residence community -- 3rd Dundas. As far as scientists can pinpoint their origins stem from a shared desire to escape restricted living conditions. The group of lively creatures has united just recently, some fleeing from the headaches of off-campus living and others joining in the exodus from Glenngarry.

Third Dundasites have attracted a lot of attention from the residence community, especially the male population. Some of these scientific enthusiasts have become so dedicated to the task of further study that they seem to be on the job night and day. (Rick is our newest floor member!) The brightly-coloured female Dundasites were originally spotted partaking in the festivities of Dundas' first successful floor party. It was a wild night!!! In the freshly established tradition of 3rd, many of the groups members can be habitually spotted at campus watering holes such as the Bree's, the Fenn, and Oliver's.

Distinguishing calls and trademarks for many 3rd Dundasites include:

ANITA - "I have to shop now before the GST!"

CATHERINE - "There's always room for Jell-O!"

TRACEY - "Can anyone pay the floor fund?"

JULIE H. - "I'm going to have a salad."

GEORGIA - "That's great!!! Anywaysss."

NANCY - "WOW! I'm not joking."

JULIE D. - "Guess who married Betsy the cow?"

JULIE F. - "Who's got a butt?"

JENNIFER F. - "Which should I go for? Paul #1 or Paul #2?"

WENDY - "He's just some prick."

LAUREL - "That's WAY cool! I don't like boys, they're yucky!"

KRISTANN - "It's Jim night! It's Jim night!"

JANICE - "Who am I, who am I (big eyes)??? Honey . . . huh?"

ZIYA - "I absolutely love my Ice-Ice Baby-man!"

HEATHER - "No more sick trays!"

What ever happened to community standards?

- WHO?

What ever happened to homework?

- WHO KNOWS?

Where do your parents live?

- WHAT?

How are the grades?

- NEXT QUESTION.

Where is the Bree's?

At least we've learned something.

The draught-dodgers of 4th Dundas are men with high ideals and tangerine dreams. Drawn from as far as the bowels of Glencatraz they have migrated to the building that Robin Leach has wet dreams about. "Spacious interior halls and gentle lighting give way to lavish bedroom suites with gorgeous bay windows. All for the living comfort of men who truly live at the top."

Bonding late in the academic year (a grossly abused term), the Dodgers failed to hold any cups for athletic prowess, but took great pride in downing many a cup while watching others foolishly exert themselves. There is a closeness here (sorry GALA, no invites!), a closeness found usually only with spandex. The floor is developing a saga full of hearty characters.

There is staunch Mike (sorry Hulkster, you're cut off) and friendly Lanny (public advertising works wonders don't it!). Honorable mention to the valiant Three Musketeers of the Open Window (say no more). There is the hormonally strained Mark (See, you ask her "What's going on up on your floor and then . . .") and his wise friend, Jeremy of the Rugger Balls (see a doctor Mark, seriously). Shaking his seriously depleted golden locks, there is the Steve Anthony clone ("He looks just like Dean!) and the man from Hagersville (keep the fire burnin' Mont). Staggering behind, there is Murray-the-perpetually-dazed, Cowboy from the Order of the Nostalgic Hat, Galileo's right-hand man Chris, and Thumper of the Hairy Left. Returning from Desert Storm, the brave Kyle. Watching over them, the Man on the Corner, Jason of the Slanted Pen. These are the men of the 4th Dundas draught-dodgers: proud, strong and fighting illiteracy in a drugstore near you.

Give the job to milk

A brisk scrub does wonders for the complexion

Michael Jordan eat your heart out

No, I'm not having a good time

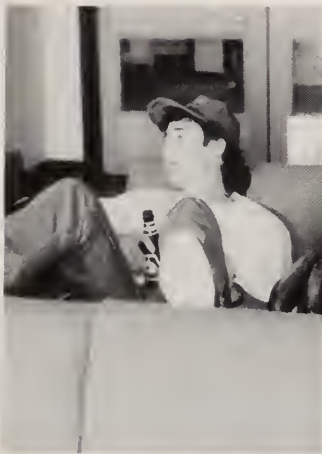

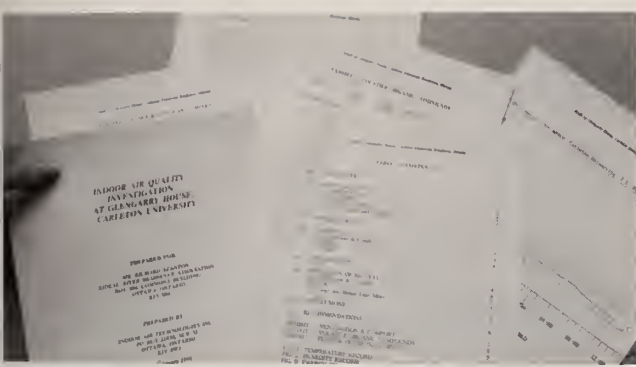

Well, if you insist ...

Yes, our lips are frozen in this position

La Shangri-la

SENIOR RESIDENTS

Lower Glengarry's senior residents: Sharon York and Chris Lyon.

Lower Glengarry House. The name of the place brings a thousand pictures to mind, pictures of people and more people: The Henry's, Fido's, Raiders, Wild Cats, and the women of Fourth Glengarry each with their own character and style.

This year was marked by the exceptional house Residence-Life team who worked wonderfully with the individual floors. Our thanks go out to our Residence Fellows: Kim, Dan, Areta, James, and Jo-Anne, and our Residence Fellow Programmers Tara and Jason.

As this is our final year as Senior Residents, the next year will certainly hold much for us. Our best wishes for you in all of your future endeavors.

Sharon and Chris

Editor's Note: The senior resident of Upper (Eleventh) Glengarry, Suzanne Griffiths, declined the invitation to contribute to the 1990-91 yearbook.

GLENGARRY

House Notes

- Glengarrians clamored for change this year, calling for renovations to improve the sealed-building's air quality and living space.
- In December, RRRRA commissions Dr. Douglas Walkinshaw to test the building for carbon dioxide, airborne chemicals, dust, mites and fungus.
- The report by Walkinshaw's firm, Indoor Air Technologies Inc. of Ottawa, recommends that the "dirty" building have windows that open, the carpets be removed, and the winter air be humidified to alleviate the chronic health problems and discomfort plaguing residents.
- In January, the building's population of 648 is reduced to 422 when a mass exodus of students anxious to escape Glencatraz move into Stormont-Dundas.
- In February, students plead with President Robin Farquhar to act humanely and implement the Glengarry recommendations.
- On February 11, a quiet demonstration of Glengarry students present their grievances to the Ontario Minister of Colleges and Universities, at Carleton to officially open the MacOdrum Library expansion.
- During Orientation Week, an elevator with 26 students crowded into it breaks down and holds them trapped for close to an hour. Ambulances take three to Ottawa Civic Hospital, fire department paramedics treat others on-site for hyperventilation.
- Death Vator out of service leaving only two elevators operational all year -- barely! since both were frequently under repair.
- The new $150,000 electronic-door security system installed last summer proves to be a complete waste of money and helps turn the 22-year-old house into Glencatraz.

THIRD GLEN

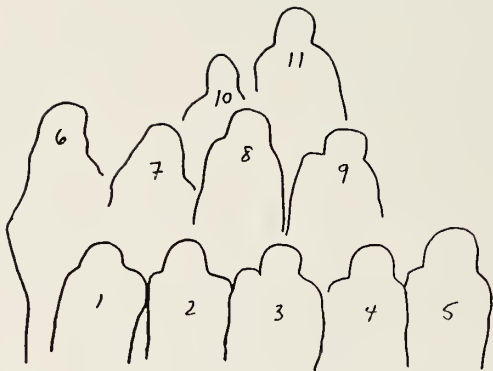

"It's over, it's all over!" one noble wiseman once echoed (and I do mean echoed!) on Third Glengarry. Yes, as the year draws to a close it cannot be said that the year on Third Glen was uneventful. Our "voguish" floor certainly kept Housing very busy, and had a great time in the process. From waterfights with our sister floor (Man, do we ever have a lot of sisters!), to a visit or two from the "tidybowl man," craziness was runnin' rampant. Who could ever forget the artistry of the forgotten ones, or "Dancin's" skirmishes on the floor and at the movies. Sports was also a large part of the atmosphere on the floor. Illegal entries into Lansdowne Park were a blast. Our participation in Hockey was applauded (remember, winnin is not the only thing!), where our 3-line passes quickly turned into 2-line passes (and we just found out that is against the rules, eh?). Thanks to everyone for their friendship and good times!

FIFTH GLEN

One billion engineers, some architecture and I-D students, journalists, and even a few arts students swarmed to Fifth Glen in September 1990. From Germany, Vancouver, and, yes, even some people from Toronto, they all came seeking to discover what life is all about. With the help of Suds (some still don't know his real name) and some enterprising returnees (nice truck Sean, how much beer can it carry?) they set out to continue the Raider tradition of athletics, drinking, and wreaking major party havoc . . . well, two outa three ain't bad ("I can't get up to play baseball, I just went to bed an hour ago!").

Bearing the hazards of Glengarry living (why can't an elevator carry 26 people), surviving on a meagre diet of Saga food, the boys of Fifth bravely pursued beer, women, and for some, an academic standing.

And though many have left for the greener pastures (and open windows) of Stormont/ Dundas, they are still with us in thought and on weekends.

To them, and Raiders everywhere, we dedicate these memories: Impromptu gatherings with Tequila line-ups (thanks for telling us about your night off James) . . . Samatello devours an entire Little Caesars outlet . . . 506 sets new records for filth (your mother does what!?) . . . Tony gets a girlfriend and locks Nick out for three weeks . . . Jay and Lee perform poolside events for us at the party (inside the pool that is) . . . yes, Jim Kelly is a Bills fan . . . Most of the floor works at the Bree's yet Chris spends more time there than all of them put together . . .

It's been fun folks. So long and thanks!

From frosh week on, Fido-dom has been experienced by 60-odd adventurous coeds, many of whom elected for oxygen second term, moving into Stormont-Dundas land. But by far the majority have stayed, some being rewarded with super singles! The Sixth Glen spirit has survived the year remarkably well, much in part to the greatest res. fellow of all time! (gallop poll-confirmed!) We love you Jo!

Some of our best (or worst) memories include: the Fourth Grenville girls (what a show!), Dave (play them pipes!), visits to Second Larnark (woops!), "Who the hell is singing?" (Tony), "Gotta Go, Ma's Flippin'!". The construction site . . . I mean study room, Julie's stuffed animals, toilet paper and doorways, Trevor & alcohol & a black marker, Jeff's question to the Senior Res., Bruce's computer, Sixth vs. Eighth furniture war, Eric's dancing partner (way to go!), Karen's (the brawler) trip to Hull, Omar and Steve on TV, "The Who are amazing" (Jeff P.), "Now I'm really pissed off; Hey, I'm Italian" (you know who!), "Anybody want something from THE store?" (Party Bill), "Saga Sucks!" (Brian), Bermudian Rum, Room 617 (where's the floor?), Drunken gymnastics at Panda, "Leeman isn't doing #@#!" (Sean), "Look at those flabby buttocks!" (Bill), Dec. 21st blackout, Pickled eggs, paint, Jeff H. walking in on . . . , Mike Mandell with Tony and Jo (did you get an eye full?)

Along with on-floor antics, a lot of great things happened while floor members were together at all Frosh events: Panda, Res Formal, concerts (AC/DC pilgrimage), downtown, Hull, the Bree's, and even Saga. Some floors are really wild and some floors are dead. Sixth Glen is neither: Good times, great friends, and your bottle of brew!

SEVENTH GLEN

It didn't take long for the "Saints" to learn what it is about to live on Seventh. With the advice from their parents still fresh in their minds these curious young men began looking for adventure. Within weeks they were banned from Houlihan's and Remy's, found fornicating in the comunals, tossed out of the Fenn and Bree's, spilling beer on the Captain during the boat cruise. From then on the rest of the year felt like one big ziggy ziggy ziggy oie oie oie ziggy ziggy ziggy oie oie eins zwei drei zufa!!!

1990-91 was the year that the Boozehogs truly earned their name. They worked hard to maintain the title, from Steve Monahan's party pukefest celebration to the pool party bonanza. The infamous party atmosphere drew in many celebrities: the Kiss Roadshow, Flash, and Cleopatra. The athletes on 8th exerted themselves bowling beer bottles, playing hockey in the halls, and wrestling with Andy (Karate Kid). There was always entertainment on 8th, Rob streaking down the halls, movie nights, lets-watch-Harper get drunk (and passout), the floor rituals of stereo wars and the quiet hours screams, and the "unforgettable?" keg party. And who can forget our burn-unit victims, as the ol' suntanning lamp strikes again! Some people found other means of entertainment, romance blossomed on 8th; Ken and Barbie, Greg and Jill, Mr. and Mrs. Beauchesne, Tanis and (Whi-Chah!) Jody, Sandy and Rob, Mark and Lisa and hey Tracey, what about Pope John? Everyday was hump day on 8th, especially Thursday nights in 840. The women of 828 proudly boasted the messiest suite, home to some wild and crazy chicks. Who said girls are made of sugar and spice? The floor would like to thank our inhouse Psychologist Al McPhee; Res. Fellow Leanne, and Floor Rep. Kelly (great team girls!) and who can forget the floor shit disturber Andy. Its been a great year oinkin' and BOINKIN' on 8th!!!

NINTH GLEN

Dearly Beloved:

We are gathered here today to get through this thing called University. Four years, baby! that's a mighty long time; but I'm here to tell you there's something else: 9th Glen. A floor of never ending happiness. You can never open a window, day or night. So when you call up your folks at home, asking that question, you know the one, "Give me some money!" Instead of worrying about how much of your time is left, worry about your mind, baby. 'Cause on this floor things are much cooler than other floors; on this floor, you are not alone. And if the elevator tries to break you down, go crazy, get wasted!!!

When the dirty halls of 9th Glen are empty, and the summer has arrived, the memories of the year will live on.

Tracy N.: *@# off! I've got a head ache!
Julie N: Has Derek called yet? Crusty.
Debbie: Manly woman in floor shoes.
Andrea D.: ABBA chick!
Julie M: Everything but the kitchen sink!
Jen: Hospital wardrobe.
Wendy: Paul, your laundry is ready!
Tammy: Queen of BLUE ANGELS!
Trish: Kermit, Cheeser & the big C
Allison: Skitter But.
Coker: Shares his bed with fat girls?
Neil: Swing and a miss, strike THREE!!!

Well, another year has come to an end and the survivors of 10th Glen are still alive and partying. We did the peace thing for frosh week with a sit-in in Res Commons, then went wild with our brothers from 7th at our floor dinner - some got more wild than others, eh Rosie? And let's not forget the GREAT view from our study lounge (don't worry, we know who you are, AND we've got pictures!) Christmas came and left - along with some of our floor who escaped Glencatraz for the new res and new men (right, Georgia?). Here's to our basketball team who took over Intramurals and sent the opposition to the hospital - thanx, Alison!

Here are some of our more personal memories . . . - Sly's men . . . need we say more? - Kyla's late nite appearances on 7th . . . so how DID you lose your voice, anyway? - Tracey and Kims' English class . . . Adonis who? - Suite 1002's 5 a.m. strip poker game - Patricia's mellowing out with the man . . . What's with the NO MIKE sign? Sandi's Chad - Caleigh's cows . . . "no one is unsuckable" - Denise and Rosie's Prim Evenings . . . "sex is like volleyball, except you get along better with the other team" - Yvonne and her following from 7th - Jen and Slys' trips to Zaps - Bonnie and Chris' contests . . . so who won? - Jen's aversion to particular peoples' eating habits - 1009's seances and Ouija board . . . so how IS Elvis? - Caroline's closed door and male voices - Patty's fire crackers - 1012's house of food - 1013's quiet smiles - Laura and Amy's . . . "Charlie and Algernon died!" - Liza's open door - Sonia . . . "Atheists of the world unite" - Nadine's beautiful music - Arlene . . . "some things are easier to eat than others" - Rosie and Sarah's trip to BARE FAX - Katherine and Natasha's famous last words . . . "we'll start tomorrow" - Morene's . . . "I'm simply not interested" - the Pursuit of Knowledge in 1023C - Tanya's . . . "watch out for the wire!" - Jenny's spunness - Chris' bar-room brawl - Lynne's punk concerts - Chandra's . . . "you're such a tool!" - Michelle's . . . "I'm a new person - honest" - Jenn and her string, eh Jeanette! - Hey, Chaucer, how's the kettle? - Jane's . . . "not now, I have to work" - Anna's gentleness. Here's to all the 10th Glen babes and our pursuit of sexcellence!

ELEVENTH GLEN

After half of the 11th Glengarry whore-bags evacuated to Stormont-Dundas in pursuit of softer pillows, the rest of us babes sat around picking our noses and waiting for Saga to open like we always do. Our floor is home to such celebrities as Madonna, the Bree's Queen, Michael Jordan, Alice in Wonderland, and Sandra Dee. When not romping around in our underwear, we enjoy sleeping in to avoid going to aerobics, assaulting each other with shaving cream or margarine, wearing shower curtains around to show how modest we are and insulting Debi. Fond memories include Airband 1991, the Charity Ball, basketball, floor dinner and DJ Pub with 2nd Russell (you guys really aren't as bad as we thought you would be!) and some stuff that's still kind of fuzzy in our memories. Thanks go to Anita (the nicest most wonderfulst amazing res fellow that ever lived - and who still has not given out any warnings) and Gen (our floor rep who was also very wonderfully nice until she deserted us) for putting up with us. It's been a great year here on 11th - where the air is thinner . . . right girls?

SENIOR RESIDENTS

In order to convey the idea of our stay as Senior Residents of Russell House, I decided to ask the members of my family their quick, unthought out responses to the question: "What is it like to be Senior Residents?"

Arthur, our youngest, and having his name begin with the letter "A", was asked first (note how I've acquired the politically correct approach). "Fun enough!!!" Arthur responded in his usual impassioned eloquence.

Cymbria next responded with a very profoundly subtle, yet questioning, "Interesting."

Michelle began her response with the word "Well." The word "well" is usually followed by a brutally honest but obvious answer, or a complete fabrication. This initial answer was "Well . . . it's very busy." I repeated my question, stipulating that the word "well" be left out. Michelle's second answer: "I guess it could be compared to salmon fishing having no idea what the weather will be like." (Don't worry, I'm still trying to figure it out myself.)

Michelle, as a writer and illustrator, and I, as an artist and inventor, have enjoyed our involvement with quick, open-minded, and in most cases, gifted young men and women. As a family, we would like to thank them for sharing their gifts with us.

Oh yes. What do I think it's like to be Senior Residents? "Our children have grown and we have aged . . . in wisdom."

RUSSELL

HOUSE NOTES

- The House (Third Russell) that stickhandled its way into the Guinness Book of Records back in 1979 by playing 100 hours of floor hockey in the Unicentre dominated sports for another year (with some exceptional intra-mural competition from the boys in Glen).
- Russellites seemed to dominate politically as well: the 1991-1992 RRRR president-elect, George "Fletch" Fletcher, is the Second Russell floor rep, while his opponent's vice-presidential running mate, Mark Steciak, lives on Fourth.
- In late November, RRRR Council floor reps move to discipline VP Lou Riccoboni for alleged dereliction of duty. Russell floor reps lead the call for better executive accountability.
- Fourth Russell Trappers faithfully deliver the Resin newspaper all year; more Resin contributors live in Russell, including the Two Goofs on a Couch columnist, than any other House.
- Rumor has it "The Lodge" -- a secret male society -- still exists among unknown Russellites.

FIGHTING COCKS

On First Russell, there are 25 guys successfully disappointing their parents. However, we can brag the best floor pride in res. Even Moisha's vomiting skills make us proud to be #1 in the "Power Regurgitation" category.

Testosteronal prowess is encouraged on First Russell with "Employee of the Month" merits, giving the Fighting Cocks a distraction from trying to find the most entertaining coverage of the Gulf War (if it don't have computer visuals, we don't watch it!).

And well-rounded? Even the most tranquil 1st Russell was "overheard" carefully telling a Res. Fellow how much he wanted to "knock your . . . head off!" Pretty timid, eh?

Yeah, we got hick-town yokels, east-coasters, west-coasters, middle-coasters, and beer coasters. We got Italians, Koreans, Germans, journalists, and Moisha, who collectively and inconspicuously offer constructive criticism to passers-by on the "First Russell Cafeteria Critiquing Panel". Our contribution to the community.

Responsible? Hell, we take turns monitoring the conduct of the floor whenever the Res. Fellow is gone: "Hey, stop blowing that damn horn, you know I'm in charge when Don's not around, so stop, or I'll wake up Targon (Satan's evil opposite)."

All in all, a good time was had by all (like a church picnic), and remember: no matter how bad things are today, someday they'll be someone's "good old days", Dirty Hooo'ers.

REINDEER

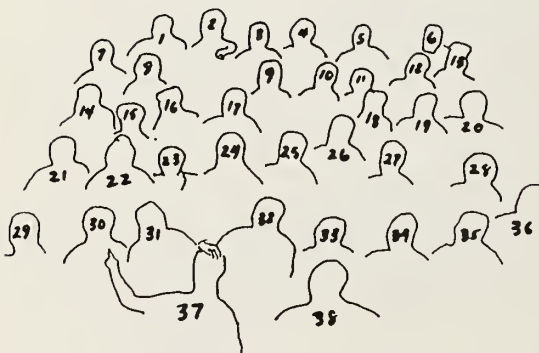

FIGHT THE POWER (Housing)!!! Second Russell Reindeer: The legend is back. First of all, thanks to our res fellow Pat: with his alarm clock and trips to the gym. Our floor rep Fletch: "Peace Love and Happiness." Thanks to our sister floor 2nd Gren and our floor dinner dates 11th Glen. That aside, THE PARTY STARTS NOW!!

Stuff ya better not forget: snow barbeques, snow football, chicks dig it, chickmasters, Prince and our airband championship, very bad and very late First Choice movie nights, the BOYEES, our football and baseball teams that won as long as the other team didn't show up, our hockey team that didn't win regardless, Gabriel the invisible student, Jim and Hardcastle skiing, Greek Canadians, Jay's STUDIO 253, all our amazing dancers: Serge, Cash, the Bree's Lambada couple, the S1W'S, New Kids, Prince and his revolution. Sponge and Humper: thanks for coming out, Action Jackson and Action Junior, Honourary floor members Brent and Suresh, Vamos' pink underwear, the ping-pong room cycling team, Fief's stolen stuff, Jeff's perfume and toaster oven, the after Oliver's Olympic Swing Competition, Mike's essay, our very own Iranian and French guys, Hash's brief job with security. Luigi and Viper's cockpit, Mark K's unhypnotizability, frequent nature walks through spirit world with Walt, Al, and others, Schankula the king of destruction, the Star Trekkers, Trevor's handicap, the almost-ready-to-go-assassination game, Dave and Vito sometimes live on the floor, Scott's pig heads, Yar, tray-boarding, whale-steaks and broccoli, all of our hot lixx guitarists, the girls from 11th that we still can't get off our floor, beatmasters, the Fletch and Rosie campaign, Fist Fighter, Laser Man, Cannibal Women in the Avocado Jungle of Death, and Gleaming the Cube, the U.S. versus Iraq watchathon on CNN, Forehead's computer messages, Cash and Paul's answering machine, it's no big thing --it's only school, Ian's unlimited supply of junk food and so, so, very many more 2nd Russell party animals too numerous to remember.

Girls, like to shop? Come to 2nd Russell and blow a few bucks.

Girls, cheers, sports, and beers were the highlights of the 1990-91 edition of the Third Russell Penguins sparked by flamboyant floor rep Rick "Maverick" Batchelor. These raw-meat eaters shocked, stunned, and outraged the residence community during frosh week with a dazzling belly flop, vulgar chants, unequalled drinking binges, and a general attitude and aura of obnoxiousness and viciousness that enabled the Penguins to score many home runs on the baseball diamond as well as in a social setting from warning to whiskey, from Risk to rye, from bedwetting to bourbon, from whores to Happy Jacks, from Drambuie to a 'donkey honker', from tequila to toilet, from half-kegs to housing meetings and from saga to shithouse, the 1990-91 Third Russell Penguins gave residence all it could handle, and told that damn milkman NO MORE CHEESE.

Rick (Mav) - Beam me up Scotty! & It's up to you, NY, NY!
 Mark (Danielsahn) - Don't go in another hockey pool son.
 Jay (Nice Guy) - A friend to all women.
 Jeff (Jeffie) - A new pair o'slippers & PJ's are in order.
 Don (Chewy) - "You . . . ass!"
 Bill (Bilbo Baggins) - I'm right, you're wrong, and you're all going to hell!
 Paul C. (Weasel) - I'm going out to get drunk - so there!
 Dave C. (Big Dave) - Going to the gym.
 Tony (Rapman) - That's cool man!
 Pat (Hoops) - Anyone up for a game?

Sean H. (Hoppy) - Duct tape and chairs, eh Hoppy.
 Martin (Juice) - Ya wanna go!
 Zack (Fonzie) - On my trip in France . . .
 Tal (Flamer) - For $25 I'll dye my hair.
 Dave L. (Barracuda) - Airband King.
 Mario (Ghandi) - I'll pop for you!!
 Mike M. (Sleepy) - And tell that milkman - NO MORE CHEESE!
 Todd (Donkey Honker) - There is a God!
 Jeff M. (Baby Bopper) - Intramural MVP Quarterback.
 Tom (Farmboy) - The man with all the moooves.
 Pat O'Reilly (Chief) Rez Fellow - One more warning and . . .
 Paul P. (Pig Pen) - I'm not losing hair, shut up!
 Mike R. (Rat) - No more of the freakin' rootbeer!
 Jeff R. (Sneaker) - Just gimme another beer.
 Rory (Junior) - Hey-o Maverick Man . . .
 Earl (Duke) - This sucks.
 Shawn (Bonehead) - Let's go over to 3rd Gren!
 Andre (Fact man) - Up for a game of soccer.
 Steve (Cueball) - I don't know why I cut my hair.
 Chris (Kid Nikka) - I don't wanna shower.
 Mike C. (Gimp) - I've got things to do.
 Jamie (Ruprect) - Where the hell's Shannon.
 Brandon (Woody) - I know I'm right, Dammit.
 Rich - Nice Boots!
 Tommy - The budding sportscaster.
 Dino - You can find him in the Studio.

Well Trappers, the year is over already. And what a year it has been. We showed our strength on numerous occasions. We dominated in winning the Tug of War (that's two years in a row), baseball, hockey (we had fun), and broomball, to name a few. Our artistic side shone through with our fabulous air band performance. Unfortunately, hair extensions won over talent.

Here's to Euchre, Monopoly, Trivial Pursuit (gee Beav, you're so helpful), Toys "R" Us, Fenn, the Market, the always present contingent of Trappers in the Brees, and unfortunately, Hull. Running on cabs gave us our late night exercise, and Bert's appetite and credit card pulled through when we were very hungry but had no money.

Now, let us ponder . . .

JIMMY: You gotta hate those Res Security love triangles.
 SPEEDY: SLOW DOWN.
 ADONIS DREW, MALE FILM STAR: A real knee slapper.
 ROB: All that virility, and he's a Film Studies major!
 MATT F: May your finance dance live forever.
 JEFF: Loves every girl, everywhere.
 BILL: King of the wrap-around.
 DEL: Elaine's looking for you.
 JASON: Eat, work, laundry, sleep.
 DAVE: The computer crashed . . . again.
 ROB: Mr. Movie. Do you ever leave your bed??
 MIKE: RASTA! Nice burns. Nicer sister.
 MARK: Turn your . . . alarm off!! (Nice farts)
 LUMPY: Penicillin and booze don't mix. Nice formal.
 JOE: The Lone Ranger and Tonto were lovers!!
 STEVE: Gone to Athens for the weekend.
 TODD & DAVE: You look tired. Take a nap.
 DALE: Move your bed frame away from the wall.
 DALE (RF): Res Fellow romance? . . .
 REID: The return of Captain Porno.
 SQUEAKY: Computers do . . . ! (thanks Mr. Modem)
 LEE & STEVE: Come out, come out, wherever you are!
 MARTIN: Clutch that Perreault shirt. So touching.
 BARNEY: Habs fan. Great guy. Perfect height.
 ERIC: Moe quits TPOH and goes to Carleton.
 HENRY: Lay off the offensive . . . fish.
 SHANNON: Our walking sports statsman.
 CHRIS: Too busy designing buildings and bridges.
 PIPES & PJ: Romper Room. Who do you see today?
 MATT W.: A friendly, non-obnoxious J-student. (Hint - Drew)
 BARNZIE: Habs and Wolverine fan. Say no more.
 GUY: Where the hell is he now?
 RUSSELL: Nice name. Nice drunk . . . NOT!!
 GREGGER: Women haters unite! Best one-liners.
 BEAVER: Nachos and Nintendo, Who are you in love with this week?
 MARK: Why all the pictures?
 STUDIO STUDIAC: Steroids made him what he is today.
 DAVE: Too much work to get a real haircut.
 TROGS: Res Security's boredom fighter.
 STRETCH: Lose the attitude.
 BERT: Human TV Guide. Should get first Bronson's credit card.
 JAMIE: You can take a breath now.
 KEN: Leaf fan. Will he ever learn? (Kurvers for Lindros!)
 LOU: He just plain loves women.
 BJ: Help me Rhonda . . .
 SPANKY: JOEY!!! Stick to goalies.
 GLEN: Nice of you to look after your sister.
 DEREK: Bendecko! Gotta smoke? Gotta beer?

P.S. Who the . . . is in Woody's room???
 P.S.S. SUPPORT OUR TROOPS IN THE GULF

SENIOR RESIDENTS

Our family life sure has changed since we moved into Grenville last summer. Big Sunday dinners every night, 180 instant aunts for Jen and her not so instant little brother, Christopher.

The move onto campus has made it more convenient for Chris while he's working on his PhD in Political Science. I have been on maternity leave from C.H.E.O. where I work as a radiology clerk. This has allowed me to be a little more available in the house. Jen thrived as a cub reporter for the Resin this winter.

Being imports to Ottawa ourselves, we're aware of the distance between us and our families. We want to say thanks to all the students for making us feel so welcome here -- a baby shower for me, presents and Halloween and Valentine treats for Jen, not to mention all the freebies she picks up wandering through the halls. We only hope that we've been half as successful at making the students feel as welcome and at home.

We enjoyed it! See you next year!

GRENVILLE

HOUSE NOTES

- A burning mattress and a minor explosion involving a boiler were the first of a series of memorable pyrotechnic displays in the all-female residence this year.
- The Talking Heads song, Burnin' Down the House, becomes the Fourth Grenville anthem following three more small fires in fall and winter.
- Sister residence to Russell, Grenvillagers join Russellites in late-November call for disciplinary action against the VP. RRRRA Council settles for more regular reports from the VP and a tighter job description.
- In November, Grenville senior resident Suzanne Adams gives birth to baby boy.
- In January, like Russell, Grenville fields (Patti Terry) one of two candidates for election to the 1991-92 RRRRA presidency.

First Gren has an amazing year. Frosh week was great, even though we were woken up by pots and pans early a.m. for a fountain swim. It didn't take the girls long to discover the Brees, Ollies, the Market, and Hull -- they often had to be reminded that we are at school! Never forget: Panda (the paint fight), Robe dancing, the floor dinner and a sudden baked Alaska fight, secret Santa, Boat Cruise from Hell, Rez Formal, Charity Ball, tequila parties, crown royal, the tribe (ug!), Social Saga, dirty dancing, Axl Rose, bathing beauties, etc. Do forget: our airband -- NOT! (dem's just jokes!) Thanks for coming out! P.B.F.H.!

KRISTIN: Wild Woman! Who do you love this week? HEATHER C.: Enough all-nighters and eerie phone-calls, Heath? Here's to rum & Cokes & ear-piercing! LARA (F.R.): I'll go to class today - I need the sleep! Gone to the Brees! Not another 30-day! Get a real laugh! To K.K., S.L., P.S., thanx for the help! XO Lara. HEATHER L. (R.F.): Hey Wilma - How's Fred? This is only a verbal warning . . . MICHELLE B: What's that smell coming from your room? WENDY: How 'bout those Jays? When don't you think about skiing? KIM: Are you getting up today? Cancun -- NOT! SHANNON (Sha, Chez): "OW!" "What do you mean there's fun without alcohol?" Brees tonight, Ollies tomorrow! I love Steve Miller! CLARE & YUKA: Definite laundry happening here! MICK: Often thought of, never seen. JEN G.: Lives in lingerie - is your music loud enough? KATIE (Shooter): "Let's go to the Brees for JUST ONE beer! Ya right! Covered in paint and lost at Panda. Like my spandex? How DO you work out? JANET: Don't worry, I won't tell anyone you puked in the hall! Uh? Can I have a condom please? JEN B.: Blonde Bombshell! The plane! The plane! TABITHA: Likes chair racing (Heads up Derek) Here comes Ralf! ANNETTE: Into the XMAS spirit we go! JULIE D.: Allô? Don't worry, you can only get chicken pox once! The can-condominium. TANIS: What I'm trying to say is . . . The can-condominium. BRYN: Can you tell me about . . . The can-condominium. TARA: Good morning!!! The can-condominium. PAT (Barbie): "Hell-o dummy!" "OW!" Filthy dancing at Ollies. So, how many places have you passed out in? Alcohol is evil! JULIE H.: Goodbye dummy! Aerobics queen. Loves journalism and Art Hist . . . NOT! FIONA (Fifi): How do you put up with our teasing? Want some dessert? LISA: The cast is off! Lady in black!

Another year has passed on Second Glen, leaving behind many friendships and fond memories. The girls will never forget the fun times we had at Round-Up (sexy!!), the Floor Dinner with Third Glen, and all those nights in the Bree's and the Fenn (working, of course!). Long live Bert and Ernie!! And remember boys, "You don't have 2 be sweet 2 be good!"

Kelly - The man-magnet. "Super Chicken, what are ya dooin?"

Angie - What exactly are you doing to that bar??

Daphne - "Rub You The Right Way", "Lick It Up". She's innocent . . . NOT!!

Cyn - We really like the cowboy boots - bet Damon bought them for a reason!

Patti - Aren't Grandmothers fun??

Andi - No, no . . . It's a hook shot, not a right hook!!

Angela - "Love ya babe! Smooch! Look here honey, my Dad . . . and well my band . . ."

Becky - Wanna talk sex??

Nikki - "Cheers".

Les - Where the hell is our vacuum cleaner??!

Barb - "These are my boys Duncan and Damien. There are two, count'em, two!"

Jen - "I'm serious you guys, my screwdriver is stuck in the coconut!"

Vicky - "Lucy never did like Rusty . . . Come on guys, we can all wade in my pool!"

Paula - Who??

Vicki - "Damn, I hate giving out these 14-days, but . . . here you go!!!"

Tara - "Adam, are you clean?!"

Steph - "My virgin ears!!"

Brenda - Perky!!

Carol & Myrla - Greek Gods calling you home??

Sandra - She's at the pool!!

Julie - "I like bacon!"

Mich - "That last time I got drunk, my bed collapsed!!"

Shi-Lin - Turn your radio down!!

Krista - Nice "P.J.'s"!!

Laura - Nice slippers!!

Tara - Rumour has it that you hang a mean dog!!

Carole - An alcoholic with an attitude!!

Laurie - "Holy cow, I'm so drunk - I love partying in your bathroom!!"

Janet, Deb & Vanessa - Room 204 - Party Central!!

Rhona - "No, honest, I'm not drunk. Really!!"

Trish - Smoked any "H . . ." lately??

Adriana - Are you really high on life, or have you been into something?

Jo - knows . . . EVERYTHING!!!

Lisa - Or is it Sue? Or Andi? Or are we just going to Hull???

Mei-Lin - Where is she? Fourth maybe?

Michelle - "Lack of milk causes hair loss!!"

Mandy - "If it's a guy, I'm in the shower!!"

Nancy - Breaks the sound barrier . . .

Karyn - "I'm going to take a dump!"

Colleen - (Jamie's showermate) Thanks for having me!!

BURNIN' DOWN THE HOUSE!!

Fourth Grenville was so "Fired Up" in 90/91 that they were just "Too Hot To Handle" and the 4th Russell Trappers quickly realized that "U Can't Touch This" was the name of the game. The Gren girls were above the standards of the Pen but thank God we have morals and they have hands. Between fires, boiler room explosions, and more fires, the women of Fourth Gren became known for their wild partying whether it was playing in the Bree's, cocktail parties at the Laff or happenings in Hull. Frosh Week was a blast and some memorable events include being on the championship Tug-of-War team, initiation at Brewer, the game "Simon says, Hug the Fountain", and how about those Designer Coveralls for Panda. We also can't forget the peeping Toms, gas attacks, little mermaids, flame throwers, icy showers, the Battle of the Bands between Alabama, Michael Bolton, and Iron Maiden, as well as those recycling rats with an eye open to recycle anything and everything. Hallowe'en saw the girls disguise themselves as farmers, bums, mimes, and pigs, and a pizza party for all after "Gene Simmons" won the pumpkin carving contest. Johnny Appleseeds and Electric Bananas were the hit (or was that yak) of the day along with our athletic talents in Basketball and the Lambada. Musical talent was shown as we sang for our supper and what about those Seven Spanish Angels, Piano Man, and Ice, Ice, Baby. The Airband was a hit as Fourth Gren brought back the Village People for rousing renditions of "Macho Man" and "YMCA". And how can we forget Arnold, the Boy lists, deranged derelict, late night skating parties, stuffed animals, begging gophers, those $400 phone bills, the Spot, Days, those anonymous letters, Windy Cities and peach cobbler, CBC trucks and OC Transpo buses, cowboy boots and overalls, and those psychobumpkins and city slickers. Spirits, one and all, were welcomed by Fourth Gren as Dick and Grampa came to visit through the Ouija. We will always remember Res. Security (and some of us not just for those 30 days). late night excursions through transoms, the Face Plant Queens, those favourite expressions around the floor -- "Viva Italia", "What's on the Movie Channel", "Crunchy perch again" -- and the snorts, sniffles, aches and pains that plagued us all. It was Solitaire for one, Rummy for two, Shooter for three, and Euchre, Euchre, and more Euchre for four at all hours of the day and night. And the jobs from clerks to bartenders to security guards to receptionists to res. fellows (Ooops! that must be a typo), everybody was making the money. Well, it was a helluva year for us on Fourth Gren from the young, the innocent, the wild, the crazy, the keeners, the slackers, and the anally retentive, we will always remember this year. So party on! Keep on "Burnin' Down The House!!"

This is our farewell message to the residence community, as this is the last of our three-year term as senior residents. Although we look forward to moving off campus and re-establishing a more "normal" family lifestyle for Duncan and "the new baby", there are many aspects of our residence life we will miss.

What we will miss most are the people. We have appreciated the opportunity to interact as members of the community, getting to know many of the students who have lived in Lanark House during the past three years.

Many people have commented on the strange environment the residence community is to raise young children. We have certainly had our share of problems that most parents do not have to deal with, especially difficulties revolving around the cafeteria. But we think the benefits have far outweighed the difficulties. We have appreciated the interest and attention the students have demonstrated toward Duncan. I think it will be Duncan and Ralph (the dog) who will experience the most culture shock at leaving residence.

Thank you, goodbye, and good luck to all of you.

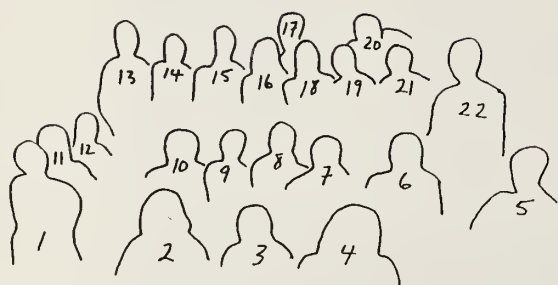

Nancy and David

LANARK

House Notes

- Something strange was in the air at Lanark this year, with bodies crashing through a TV lounge window, a stairwell window and glass door this winter.
- In mid-September, a napkin left in an ashtray started a small fire.
- In November, a Lanark resident (and former floor rep) is evicted following complaints of sexual harrassment.
- In mid-February, one male resident has a nervous breakdown, another crashes through a stairwell window and receives psychiatric treatment, while an off-campus "visitor" disturbs the second floor.
- Early in the winter term, the two RRRA executives living on Fourth Lanark experience unfortunate twists of fate: Evil is unjustly disqualified from the CUSA presidential race because of a story about his candidacy which appeared in the Resin before the campaign start-date, and Liz is dismissed as SAC for bringing a minor into the Bree's.
- Lanarkans are not alone in misfortune. Bad craziness took hold of most of the world this winter with war in the Persian Gulf, secessionary wars in the Soviet Union, and terrorist bombings in London

FIRST LANARK

JOHN E. - I hate to tell you this, but Washington Huskies still suck. GO BLUE!!
 MEL - It doesn't take much to amuse this bold chick, just a Stain in the sheets and 7".
 ERYN - LOUD!! WHO, ME!! It only helps to attract the attention of the Body.
 SCOTT - This ladies man still has a bit to learn about the birds and the bees and the fact that roosters don't lay eggs.
 MATT - His theory of life -- "Boomerangs always come back."
 NICOLE, Res Fellow - She should change jobs and become a clown for the circus so she can throw cake into people's faces.
 SUE - "Hey! Did anyone see Wade take a drag off of that cigarette??"
 KIM - This reserved woman can puke, recite Shakespeare, and flood a res fellows bathroom all in one breath.
 LIDA - Card shark of First Lanark. Can you say the word CHEAT!!
 CHRISTINE - Have you been able to get the crease from the garbage pail off of your face yet??
 JEN - The last person to fall for the line, "Will you make love to me??"
 LISA - Little Miss Innocent . . . NOT!! Password is, "Lift your shirt or you're not getting in."
 DANIELLE - The only person we know who can smile and be cheerful while worshipping the porcelain god.
 NANCY - This babe got stuck with Danielle as a roommate and as a result, her hair is black.
 ANDREA - One year on First Lanark just wasn't enough.
 PAT - Changed her career goal from being a jiu-jitsu instructor after teaching Danielle the moves.
 GRAHAM - "I'd love to go to Hull with you . . . WHOOPS . . . I have to check with Audry first."
 GARY - The car insurance company's most appreciated customer.
 CHRISTIAN - First Lanark's exhibitionist of 1990-91.
 STEVE - This sly character would enjoy living in some African tribe where polygamy is legal.
 WADE - Four hours in Hull . . . "So there I was, standing in line at the bank."
 SEAN - Let's get this straight, Toluene and plastic containers do NOT mix. We can tell you're an engineer.
 MIKE - Remember, pets aren't allowed in res . . . so they say.
 RAJ - "Honest guys, I'm not psycho (psych)."
 DAVE - Sorry to tell you this, but res fellows aren't allowed to date people on the floor.
 ERIC - First Lanark's next candidate for Chip-n-Dales.
 CHRIS - For your next trip to Montreal, don't take Eric as your body guard.
 CRAIG, Floor Rep - Known as res's famous sea toy who is fun to play with but not good to swallow thanks to Danielle and Jen.

Second Lanark was definitely the place to be this 1990-1991 year. While the East End kept the breweries happy the West End kept the Columbians smiling. Both sides however united to gain complete control of the Bree's Inn (where were the rest of you?). When the Bree's was closed for Fenn we showed the rest of you how it was done.

We also controlled the airwaves with out Lip-synch hit Munha Munha, a special thanks to Jim Henson and the Animal. And previously before that at Orientation Round-up I wish to remind everyone that it was Second Lanark that took home most of the prizes.

Second Lanark was also known for not having too much respect for the law, sorry Rez security but we don't hit the sack here until four in the morning. Broken windows were a problem, but it was all in the name of fitness and sport. Water fights often escalated into swimming pools being created, or beds being wet. Not many people on our floor did not have at least a fourteen-day, some excelled and received thirties, and the real keeners went for fifty-dollar fines.

As you can see we were having a lot of fun, and so the four credit club was created. But in doing so we still received something many others would not understand. We became more than friends, we became family.

THIRD LANARK

It's been an interesting, but otherwise drunken year on 3rd Lanark. We'll always remember The Simpsons, The Brees, our unforgettable floor meetings, Euchre, the writing on the walls, the dead guy in the dead lounge, stupid fines, Hull, funny fungus, Saga Orville, the wall of smokes, and our floor dinner with 12th Glen.

So do me, do me, do me till I'm dead!

Here's to everyone on the floor:

CAM/THE GODFATHER: Duh Stooze! STOOGE: My name's Greg Dammit! SCOOTER: Oh Yeah eh? PAUL: Dave's not up yet, go back to bed! TRUC: Look at all dees beautiful women here! CONRAD: Water shots? Or was it Tequila?? SEAN/STUMPY: Going back up for more food? BILL: Another bad day at work? JULES: I'm the type of person who can take a lot of abuse. TRISH: Chop, chop, gone to get Diet Coke! CHERYL: Anyone for Euchre? JEN M: Cross your legs guys, Jen's drunk. MIKE C: Too bad Jem's just a cartoon, eh Mike? DAVE: It's 1:30! Time to get up! JOHN: Alright! Who pissed on the toilet seat? STEVE: Always tape your stick. RACQUEL: I'm locked out of my room again! NAT: Watch out for her in the morning. ALI: Wherever there's a cause, there's Ali. JEN B.: I'm so confused. LISA: OK, Blue Jays, Let's Play Ball! KEVIN: Oh, that's the guy who lives in 317 right? JES: No, no, no. You've got it all wrong. JOE: Rumor has it Jes has a roommate. JEFF: Mmbmbmmmbmbmb . . . Huh? ANDY: Hey Bud! Let's get some food! DAWN: She does live on 3rd. I'm so sorry. KELLY: No Jesmond, You are wrong. NATASHA: Anyone mind if I change the channel? JOANNA: Hey youse guys! GILL: Hee, hee, hee, oops! ELIF: Ow. My neck, my nose, my back . . . SARAH: God girl, do you ever shut up! DEANNE: Going to Hull AGAIN! ANDREW: Who? DOUG: Don't . . . talk to me about it, . . . show me. ABBAS: Nice shoes, wanna . . . CHRIS: i ssswear I'm gggonna quit. ALEX/PELT CHEST: Say Cheese!!! PILOT: Gotta Beetle Along! HANNAH: Speak up. We can't hear you. RHONDA: Our mother away from home. NANCY: Do you ever come out of your room? DEANNA (Res Fellow): Shhhh!

Binnie - Thanks to the quad, now fully aware of sex, drugs, and rock 'n' roll. Bob - Hi! I'm Bob from Stoney Creek. Cindy - Sarcastically speaking . . . the Library Queen. Grant - Grant-o-matic. Full-time shareholder in Toys-R-Us. Shawn - If you don't smoke, why do you have cigarettes, Gonzo? John - Our own Ken doll. May you find your Barbie someday! Evil - Shares his brother's crops and moral stance on foul language. Glen - The Elastic Man (a.k.a., "The Happy Croatian"). Jace - The only Res Fellow whose room was sabatoged by a penny. We're holding your phone and beanbag for ransom. Big Dave - No, we don't have any extra smokes! Tammy - Riding off with Rich in her super-single. Ryan G. - Amorous when he drinks; known to have gone five rounds with Mike Tyson. Santana - Everyone needs to relax! Lawren - Is it my imagination or did the earth just move? Could be any girl's Oreos filling! Sherie - It's over, I mean it! I LOVE HIM! Rich K. - Andrew Dice Clay is not a good role model! Long live weightlifting and tatoos. Dave K. - Always has smokes and the faithful Zippo! Kim - Remember the Fenn last fall? How many colors of hair can you try? Maddy - Finance Dance! Unrequited Love!! Finest rum drinker ever!!! Andrea - We need more girls for baseball.

What are ya gonna do with all those signs, anyway?? Debbie - Winnie, get out of bed! Liz - Playing the Pill Game. How many men shall we list? Vic - No, you sit on my face! Slip her the tongue Eric! Sue - You wanna piss me off? It's my cup and you can't have it!! Margaret - Maggs surprised us all! Dina - No, but . . . Guys!! Jacqui - Selling undergarments in the Bree's to buy reptiles - little groupie!! Lizabeth - Slow down! I didn't quite catch what you said!! Roger - Floor bigot! A lover except when it comes to grad students. Lisa - We don't know. Ask Lee, if he's not too tired that is! Jeff - Redknob, Rouge, Jeffy. "I am a rock . . ." Warren - Just say NO! The day begins at 4:30 pm. Danielle - 50 different kinds of shampoo - who is that guy and why don't we ever see him. Paul - Can be found in TV lounge at 4 am watching . . . anything! Tina - Sports scores and soaps: ask her! Toby - Aspires to getting a little or a lot. A sensitive guy! Todd - Siskel and Ebert watch out! Here's definite competition. Jane - Picking up and snoring! Candlelight and "Moondance." Interrupted passion?? Julie - A tolerant canmate with a cute brother and ever-present boyfriend. Fred - Wears sunglasses at night, in morning, in afternoon - all the time!! Kate - Grenville! Bring Kent around more, we want to check him out! Joey - Snore a bit louder, if you can! Rich - Do you sleep with that soccerball?

SENIOR

Because our little family prays to all the Gods -- be they commercial, ideological, or spiritual -- we were blessed this year with the presence of Grads in our House. They are sooo mature that we seldom had to intervene or hold meetings to discuss everyday, mundane problems.

All hasn't been a bed of roses: Renfrew House is not A "Morgue," contrary to popular undergrad myth. People still have dangerous liaisons. But it has been quieter, the level of discourse more intellectual (not to mention more neurotic), and the quality of mercy less strained.

It has been, primarily, a transitional year, a time to work out exactly how a Grad residence should be organized and smoothly run. Of course, that will never quite happen; but as a Holy Grail, it's not a bad goal.

Kayla, Gwen and John would like to thank all the students of Renfrew House (past and present) for the wonderful moments of frustration, laughter, and hysteria.

The HIGHS: Mike's door, Sukhpal's passion, Manny's red nose, Mimi's wit, Varsha's grace, Ryan's sarcasm, Theo's diplomacy, Peter's party-closing speeches, Lola's outfit's, Reda's computing skills, Tracey's Tracey, Wilbert's accent, all the undergrads who survived . . . We could go on, but Brian will only allow us so many words.

The LOWS: Meetings that went on for more than two hours.

Because of you, our definition of a community is one composed of a group of people who can fight and kiss and make up all in one term. For this greater understanding, we thank you.

John and Gwen

The (founding) Graduate Residence Committee. Front Row Left to Right: Richard Stanton (RRRA President), Roman Meyerovich (GRC Chair). Back Row (Floor Reps): Wilbert King, Anand Krishnaswamy, David Cooper (later resigned and replaced by Ian Hudson), and Carmen Schembri (resigned and replaced by Debra McLeod).

- This house of historic “firsts” -- Carleton’s first (female) residence, first co-ed student residence (floor) in North America, first to be featured on national television (CTV’s W5) -- this year became the first graduate student house.
- In September, grads elect the first Graduate Residence Committee (chair and the four floor reps) to represent their interests in RRRA and before Housing.
- The GRC effectively lobbies to keep Renfrew open over Christmas, a great relief to the 40 foreign graduates residing there. (Results of efforts to keep Renfrew open in summer unavailable at press-time.)
- Despite a Valentine’s Day dinner controversy, and some misunderstanding concerning the $5000 (RRRA) grad budget, residents successfully direct their own affairs.

In September 1990 a group of graduate students moved into the vacant rooms of First Renfrew. Coming from literally all parts of the globe, the 1st Floor residents have come to truly appreciate each other's cultures. The sharing of experiences has been remarkably successful. Despite their cohesiveness however, each of the "boys" retains his own personal style.

Dimitrios P. admirably defends classical liberal virtues at every opportunity. Loves: Property rights, movies. Hates: Nut liberals, "difficult" profs. Secret ambition: To abandon the sterile world of economics for the excitement of super-heavyweight boxing.

Sami I., our floor computer expert, is an invaluable source of both laundry quarters and objective analysis of the Middle East situation.

Business student Karl G. impresses with his "insider knowledge" of the private lives of Indian film starlets, as well as his smooth British charm. A Hull regular.

Economist Kirk D. adds a certain "down home" flavour to the floor. With his impressive physique and winning Maritime personality his attainment of permanent cult status among female undergrads is assured.

Sanjay M. is an engineer who combines a heap of athletic ability with a great sense of humour. His reaction to the great November earthquake: "I came to this country to study, not to die."

Geoff D. topped 1st Ren's 1991 "Most Likely to Succeed" poll. This classy historian with strong ties to the Hill personifies the solid values so lacking in our present Prime Minister.

Per Gunnar R. is one of NPSIA's brightest and best-dressed stars. A lifelong rocker with a taste for zany humour, P.G. quickly sheds his Scandinavian reserve in social situations.

Wilbert K. is the Floor Rep who "gets things done". An intellectual mentor to dozens of West Indian development students, his infectious laughter conquers all.

Mark R., also of NPSIA, will rejoin the world of high finance after completion of his political economy studies. If only he'd decided to save the Prairies rather than Latin America . . .

Janos I: A quiet scholar of the Austro-Hungarian Empire. Loves: ice cream cones. Hates: Late night noise from the TV room.

Dale X. is the Floor's mystery man. The boys first met this retiring chemist in mid-January; he'd moved in 3 months before.

Ilyas X. is the latest occupant of 1st Ren's tiny holding cell. Will this plucky engineer prove tougher than the rest?

Ahmed A.: The Yemeni striker is a dangerous man on the soccer field, and a financial wizard to boot.

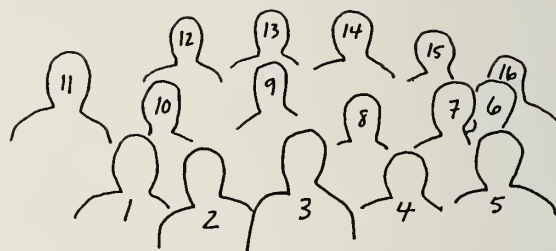

Patrick M.: As the nicknames "Hans" and "Piefke" suggest, an incurable Germanophile. Loves: Europe, his guitar. Hates: Politics, which he studies.

THE MEN OF 2ND RENFREW

Dempsey, "the doctor of soul" and philosopher of love.
 Dan P. "just another NPSIA nut", a man who's experienced the apocalypse of his computer let's hope he never gets into the real world
 Rian, "Geraldo", destined to work for the Sun (UK), ain't that gonna be great [sic].
 Greg, the only one in Renfrew who would survive a nuclear winter without leaving his room.
 Fons, the only person to make permafrost and groundwater in frozen surfaces interesting.
 Ian, the only immodest person who revels in his own modesty; Marx's child prodigy
 Daniel A. The most righteous man in Renfrew.
 Frank, the only Green to smoke a pack a day - stupid!
 Ralf, Hugo Boss with a Canadian accent.
 Theo, Elvis is alive, Elvis is alive, the King is back and he's a Greek basketball player.
 Randal, the most cultured and sexually free man in Renfrew.
 Clement, who says we don't have royalty in Canada.
 Ken, singlehandedly tried to ruin our reputation as the morgue.
 John D., "Blah blah Beta blah blah hockey blah blah co-op job." He came he saw and then left.
 Laurent, "Good clean community living".

Veterans of the Glengarry campaign to make Renfrew the graduate residence settled gladly into this old house. Two dozen from last year's Gang of 70 made the move to Ren from Glen. Keepers of the Eleventh Glen Party Penthouse, the Third Ren Crew brought Chez Mo's with them. Hosting more parties than any other floor, Third made the house rock. Like old times, when the party moved into our Tunisian host's room, security papered the hall with 14-day warnings. One rockin' night in October, heated up by a res fellow and a couple of boys in blue, a house party that began at the Fortress on Fourth ended with all hell breaking loose on Third (the only co-ed floor). Revolted by the agents of Housing, the veterans, with many new recruits, took up the good fight again, gathering signatures from 68 of Renfrew's 95 residents on a petition to establish residence life policy for the grad house (a.k.a., "The Morgue"). They fought to keep the building open year-round. They saw the first Graduate Residence Committee take office and helped when it seemed necessary to shake things up a little (remember that earthquake in November?). Their names shall forever be remembered: Annette, Ashraf (GSA res rep), Brian (the Resin editor), Cliff, David, Habib, John, Manny, Mohamed (GSA VP Finance), Peter, Surapol, and Varsha (on Third); David, Greg, John C., John D. (GSA VP Admin.), Ken, Pal, Randal, Roman (founding GRC Chair), Victor, and Yong (on Second); Mark and Demetrius (on First). The Third Ren Veterans of Glen were joined this year by others who also won't be forgotten: Anand, the serene floor rep who quietly kept us posted; Reda, the Egyptian computer whiz; Kim, our spirit from the west; Derya, whose Ankaran roots have Austrian connections; Mike, the Soviet analyst and gentle cynic; Erika, the soulful latin lawyer; Nabeel, the winter cyclist; Anthony, friend to all; Jon, Canada's would-be William F. Buckley; Renée, the res security chief; Tracey, with keys to every floor and a laugh that could pop an ear; Dawn and Anne bringing tidings of the New Year, and our undergraduate friends Maureen and Wendy.

FOURTH RENFREW

What adequately describes the lives and personalities of the women of Fourth Renfrew? Let's try to put a largely misunderstood floor into perspective.

The conspicuous absence of males on our floor had a definite impact on how others perceived us and on how we perceived ourselves. We were called a "Fortress," but to be sure this fortress had its fair share of invasions -- welcome and unwelcome. Moving onto the floor we were greeted by wasps. No, not the white, anglo-saxon, protestant kind, but the kind that fly, buzz, and sting. A more lasting and welcome invasion was Frosh. Mind you, several were most often sighted on the second floor. Hmm . . . What did that floor have that ours didn't?

Sandra, Deborah, Baldish, Mimi, Aye, Brigitte, Corey, Angkana Beverly, and Tess, while successful in setting up a bastion of MPA students, did not manage to entirely wipe out those enrolled in other programs. From time to time, we encouraged the invasion of our floor: remember that party in October? But in the end we were mostly left alone to study, socialize among ourselves, and watch TV (though mostly the news) in peace (and housecoats). A cosy arrangement one might say, with Corey roaming the floor in her shorts (where's that photographer from Runners World?). Danielle, meanwhile, seemed to require regular attendance by a med student from Montreal (hope you're feeling better soon!). Lola kept things secure. Angie held down the (afternoon soap) fort. And who can forget quiet Aye's artwork or hospitable Mimi's "dry, arid, desert humour"?

Our time together, shared with women from different cultures with a variety of interests and experiences, provided an education far beyond the university.

Message from the President

The past year for the Residence Association has been one of innovation and change.

Glengarry House and all its problems gave RRRA a major project to work on. The mass exodus of 200 Glengarry students to the new Stormont-Dundas complex, the Glengarry air quality tests, and the discussions with the Minister of Colleges and Universities showed the Carleton Administration that the students are mad and want action. I tip my hat to Council, the Glengarry Lifestyles Committee, Dr. Walkinshaw, Brian, and Lanny for their support.

Another of RRRA's accomplishments was the Parliament Hill Placement Program, where residence students got hands-on experience working with Members of Parliament. Thanks to Jim Watson, 1981-82 RRRA President, and Lou. The association underwent structural change in 1990-91 with the phasing out of the Financial Comptroller position and the introduction of the General Manager. Congratulations to one of the hardest working members of RRRA, Dave Vandenberg, GM, who, through countless hours of work, single-handedly cut the deficit of $120,000 in half. Along with the restructuring went constitutional reform. Thanks for the hard work Lou.

A big hand should be given to the RRRA Programmer, for her hard work during Orientation and Res Week. Thanks Patti -- I am a wild party!

Finally, thanks to everyone in residence for making this an A-1 year. I am truly grateful to this community for giving me the chance to be your President. Good luck to Fletch and Rosie, the 1991-92 Executive, and to the incoming council.

Richard "Evil" Stanton, 1990-91 RRRA President

The Rideau River Residence Association

All students living on campus (1448 this year) at Carleton University are members of the Rideau River Residence Association, Inc. The purpose of RRRA (pronounced "raw") is to serve Residence students by voicing their interests in the operation of the community, the improvement of the Residence environment and the overall quality of Residence life.

With a budget of close to $850,000 annually, RRRA operates a licensed bar (The Bree's Inn), convenience store (Abstentions), video and pinball games arcade, twice-monthly newspaper (the Resin), yearbook (The Resolution), ski club, tutorial service, typing pool, resume and photocopying services. The Residence Association also programs concerts, speaking engagements, and a range of social activities and special events. In providing these services, RRRA employs more than 100 Residence students.

RRRA is financed by a fee ($40) paid by all students living in residence, as well as by profits obtained from its many operations.

A four-member executive team, assisted by a number of managers, assistant managers, and special co-ordinators and the 100 staff, manage the Association's business and social activities. The executive and a 34-member Council of Floor Representatives oversee the Association's political and legal affairs, representing Residence students before the various official bodies governing the University.

The RRRA Council consists of a President, who is elected in the winter to take office for a one-year term commencing May 1st and ending April 30th, a Chairperson, and 34 Floor Representatives elected by their fellow floor-mates on every floor in Residence. In addition, a number of executive and managerial positions are appointed by council hiring committees.

The RRRA Executive consists of the President, Vice President, Entertainment Programmer, and the General Manager. The Vice President is recommended to the Council by the President. Traditionally, the VP campaigns as a "conditional" running mate with the presidential nominee during elections. The Entertainment Programmer and General Manager are selected by RRRA committees and ratified by Council. The President is the only member of the executive who has a vote on Council.

The Rideau River Residence Association was incorporated on October 23, 1976, marking the beginning of a new era in student residence government at Carleton University. One of only a few such associations in Canada, RRRA provides the Residence students with an autonomous and independent organization for the promotion of their needs and interests.

Previously, the Carleton University Residence Association (CURA), which replaced the Men's Residence Association (MRA) and the Women's Residence Association (WRA) in 1969, established the first unified system of student residence government. CURA may have remained the title of the political and social organization representing the student community had the university authorities not wished to place a lengthy list of restrictions on the commercial and financial activities of the Residence Association if it was to operate under the university's name. Because an earlier (unrelated) student group had used the university's name in its title, then hit the university with a bankruptcy, the university was reluctant to have another group use its name.

The work of John Chenworth (1975-76 CURA President) and his successor, Mike Saucier (the last CURA President), helped bring about the united and independent form of student residence government (RRRA) now in its fourteenth year of operation.

Fletcher won the election 498 to 273 votes for Terry.

This thirteenth volume of The Resolution yearbook represents a collective effort involving the entire 1500-member residence community of Carleton University. The editors and photographers thank all residents for their contributions to this year's book. We hope this record of our year together sparks happy memories long after we've left this little spot nestled between the Rideau River, Rideau Canal, and Dow's Lake in the nation's capital.

THE END.
